Topic: "Financing Peacekeeping Missions - Africa"

Having considered the many solutions for re-directing funds for the United Nation's new mission,

Observing the closing of MONUSCO which would provide money for the new mission,

Recognizing the cost of the United Nations new peacekeeping mission as $250 million,

Having examined all the peacekeeping missions currently funded by MONUSCO,

1. Calls upon the removal of $100 million from MONUSCO military and police, $85 million from MONUSCO air transportation, $25 million from other supplies, services, and equipment;

2. Further requests the United Nations take $40 million evenly divided between UNAMID civilian personal, information technology, communications, air transportation, and military.
