

SPECPOL UE-1 Resolution 1.1

Co-Sponsors: Senegal, Israel, Syria, Japan, United States of America, Saudi Arabia, DPRK, Egypt, Angola, Argentina, Sudan, Myanmar, Germany, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Russia, Netherlands, Azerbaijan, Venezuela, Brazil, China, Uruguay, Antigua and Barbuda, Namibia, Kenya, India, Syria.

Topic: "Comprehensive review of the whole question of peacekeeping operations in all their aspects"

Pre Ambulatory Clauses

Emphasizing the importance of peacekeeping operations in all of their aspects,

Understanding many peacekeeping operations have been fatal in the past years,

Deeply disturbed by the gender gap and lack of women in the Peacekeeping forces,

Bearing in mind the celebration of the 50th anniversary of peacekeeping missions and that we wish to propose some possible improvements,

Remembering the first UN Peacekeeping mission in 1948, Peacekeepers' roles are to make sure both sides were following a truce,

Noting with satisfaction the efforts of various relevant UN bodies and nongovernmental organizations,

Stressing the fact that the United Nations faces significant financial obstacles and is in need of reform, particularly in the peacekeeping realm,

Operative Clauses

1. Further recommends non violence from peacekeeping troops,

2. Requests that the U.N sends trusted officers to supervise and take part in peacekeeping operations,

3. Encourages women to be involved in more peacekeeping operations and decision-making at all levels,

4. Urges the creation of programs exclusively for women to become skillful peacekeepers,

5. Encourages making women-efficient programs that will help encourage women to become skillful peacekeepers,

6. Emphasizes pledging conferences with other countries to raise money for these efficient programs.

7. Calls upon a female support group that would help women on the topic of joining the Peacekeeping operations,

8. Further proclaims having medics, translators, speakers and others added to the Peacekeeping operations,

9. Expresses its' want for weapon usage and control monitoring as well as providing tazers or other non-lethal weapons to Peacekeepers in the 3 least serious types of missions, used only when necessary, those in the Peace Enforcement missions will be provided with lethal weapons only to be used for serious cases,

10. Considers that those in affected areas, after a background check, could assist any mission in the area, receiving same or higher pay after similar training, after which they are similar in skill level to traditional Peacekeepers,

11. Strongly suggests a form of peacekeeping in which one peacekeeper looks out for and monitors another and that one looks after one more and so on.