Topic: Financial Reports: The United Nations International Children's Fund

Keeping in mind that with no income UNICEF cannot deliver on its mandate, funding is voluntary and used to assure that UNICEF may continue to meet its funding goals,

Noting with deep concern that there are many children in poverty all around the world and something must be done,

Bearing in mind that the use of advertisements to raise awareness of what UNICEF is doing and how many children's lives can be saved,

1. Calls upon the use of recycled materials to make products such as paper or grocery bags, and the income made by selling these products would be used by UNICEF in order to accomplish its objectives;
2. Further requests to raise awareness regarding what is being done and concerning the goals UNICEF has already accomplished throughout videos and advertisements;
3. Approves partnering with professional sports teams such as football, soccer, baseball, or the Olympic teams to raise funds for UNICEF;
4. Encourages institutions to have food, clothing and school supplies donated for children who are in poverty;
5. Further recommends when a customer paying for items on a shopping website, that an advertisement appears, and the customer will choose if they would like to donate to UNICEF;
6. Emphasizes the need to create a program run by members of the government for people in poverty to get affordable healthcare, food, and shelter;

7. Recommending that the more developed nations should increase their funding by 3% of their Gross Domestic Product (GDP) to help fund current and new programs;
8. Reminds that this extra funding will provide more opportunities to support less developed nations, which would give these children more and better access to nutrition, education, and health services;
9. Requests spreading awareness of UNICEF through social media platforms which could encourage people to donate towards the suffering children;
10. Supports creating programs like YAPS, a program based in Albania that helps to ensure that children all over the world to get clean water, food, clothing, and shelter.
